Biology Students Accused of Creating Test Tube Teacher

City of Edmonton Police were unsuccessful in their attempts to justify the accusations that Biology 151 and Biology 30 classes at Harry Ainlay Composite High School illegally created a substitute teacher.

This accusation suggests that the Biology students did more than count the number of fruit flies with red eyes. The "innocent until proven guilty" students had difficulty controlling their emotions. One student reveals "It was a superb feeling. A feeling of being in control, having the upper hand in a situation."

When an example of the physical composition of the "substitute" teacher was checked against the identities of other teachers city wide, police discovered that this one is definitely unique.

The being is described as caucasian with possible Asian features. He is approximately 43 to 50 years old, five foot nine, 160 pounds, with receding dark brown hair. He was last seen wearing a green plaid jacket, orange bowtie, brown polyester slacks, fluorescent yellow socks and brown leather sandals. Police have commissioned a forensic artist to compose a sketch of the horrific creature from the descriptions given by eye witnesses.

This fashion monster is at large and taking advantage of his freedom. He has been spotted at a number of the high schools throughout the city.

Is It True? Was Colin Really Bribed?

- An Inside Look

Rumours have been circulating that some students have been able to bribe Colin Penman, Harry Ainlay's dedicated receptionist, for a space in the new student parking lot.

Colin was overheard saying to a small group of students clustering around his desk, "I cannot be bought or bribed ... make me an offer."

When asked exactly what the "offer" was, Colin merely said "No Comment." An insider, however, believes the offer to be a year's supply of slurpees. None of Seven-Eleven's executive officers were available for comment.

If you see this "person", or if you have an information that could lead to the capture/arrest of this man-made freak, please call Crime Stoppers at 422-TIPS. You may remain anonymous and could qualify for an award.

How times flies! All of our yesterdays are gone and there's no going back, not now, not ever. The only thing to do is look forward no matter how scary it may seem.

"The world fears a new experience more than it fears anything. Because a new experience displaces so many old experiences."

- D.H. Lawrence

Don't ever be afraid. Have fun. Live your life as you want to live it, not as other people think you should live it. Be yourself. Don't be scared of being original. Each and every one of us is an individual, and we are all entitled to the freedom to be that person. Be your own person, do your own thing and don't let anything stop you.

"Courage is simply the willingness to be afraid and act anyway."

- Unknown

Make the best of what you have now. Don't regret anything you've done no matter how hard it may be at times. As I said before, there is no going back no matter as how much we may wish it were possible. We learn from our failures as well as our successes. Mistakes are not wrong if we learn from them. Look ahead, move on.

"When one door of happiness closes, another opens; but often we look so long at the closed door that we do not see the one which has been opened for us."

- Helen Keller

I think each and every one of us can extend a special "thanks" to all of our friends who made us the people we are. The friends who gave us courage to be ourselves. The friends who saw us through good and bad, smiles and tears, laughs and frowns. I couldn't have done it without you, any of you.

"No love, no friendship can cross the path of our destiny without leaving some mark on it forever."

- Francois Mauriac

Later!

"Every exit is an entrance somewhere else."

- Tom Stoppard

I could tell you that the yearbook is a well organized, smooth running club ... but I won't because that would be deceitful. When given the rights to yearbook from our friends at ICP, there was no clause saying I was allowed to lie. So I won't. I was overwhelmed with the turnout at our original meeting back in September when so many enthusiastic people showed up. We really thought it was great, but where did all you people disappear to? Anyways, I did not put this book together alone, so I am going to take this opportunity to thank my people.

The year progressed. We did a lot of great practice layouts, too bad we never got to use them. In January, we said good-bye to the photographer Rob Pethgrew, who finally took the plunge and left Ainlay. Just kidding Rob, we really appreciated your work. The year progressed further. Did the book? Not really. We missed our deadlines (notice I've changed to plural because I'm not the only one responsible). Then we missed the reestablished deadlines. Then we ... It came down to the point that on June 27 we were still working on pages and June 28 at 10:00 a.m. was the final deadline (you don't get a book if we don't make it). Thanks to my staff. Good luck in the future. Be brave. Encourage other dedicated souls like yourselves to join our team.

Spring break was an opportunity for some fortunate Harry Ainlay students, one fellow traveller from Scona, and three teachers to see Leningrad, Moscow, and London. The trip began with a short stop in Helsinki, Finland and then it was on to Leningrad, a city which has numerous palaces, cathedrals, museums and art treasures beyond the imagination of most of us. We will all remember Nina, our Soviet "grandmother", who taught us a year's worth of history in five days and also showed us the warmth and hospitality which make Leningrad a fond memory for all who went. Moscow, with its famous circus, beautiful subway stations, Red Square and the Kremlin, was the next stop. The final stop on the tour was London, where we arrived after the mass demonstrations against Thatcher's poll tax. Shopping, a performance of Les Miserables, as well as tours of The Tower of London, Westminster Cathedral, and a visit to Buckingham Palace were included.

BAMFIELD MARINE STATION FIELD TRIP

From March 2 to March 7, 1990 fourteen biology students, accompanied by Miss Karen Edwards and Mr. Glyn Wynn, experienced an extremely educational and thoroughly enjoyable trip to Bamfield Marine Station. Bamfield is located on the west coast of Vancouver Island at the tip of the Alberni Inlet. Bamfield Marine Station, which was formerly the western terminus for the Trans-Pacific telephone cable, was established in 1972 by a consortium of five Western Canadian universities: Victoria, UBC, Simon Fraser, Calgary and U of A (Edmonton).

The itinerary began with a flight to Victoria where two fifteen-passenger vans were rented and crammed with students and luggage. After a tour of Victoria, which included the Parliament grounds, the Royal British Museum and the famous Empress Hotel, we headed up island to Port Alberni. Port Alberni gave the students a first-hand look at a town whose major industries are fish processing, lumber and pulp and paper. The pollution factors were very obvious.

Early Saturday morning we loaded our gear onto the grand old lady of the Albernia inlet, the "M.V. Lady Rose." The Lady Rose has been delivering and picking up freight and mail along the inlet to Bamfield and Ucluelet for almost fifty years. This part of the trip proved to be extremely interesting as we sailed into small settlements at fish farms, tree farms and lumber camps.

We arrived at Bamfield just before lunch. We quickly moved into our cedar cabins, nestled under 500 year old cedar trees, and rushed to lunch. We were forewarned and soon learned that Al, the Chef, ruled the dining hall with an iron hand and lateness was not tolerated.

The Bamfield experience is one that the students never tire of recounting and will remember always. From breakfast at 7:30 a.m. to bedtime at around 11:00 p.m., they were kept so physically active and mentally stimulated that they were never bored. We were expertly guided during our trip to the station by Kitty, who worked under the field trip coordinator, Sally Carson. The students experienced a boat tour of Grappler Inlet, collection of plankton, a tour of Barkley Sound on the large boat "The M.V. Alta," dredging and netting, several hikes along the shores observing and collecting specimens, laboratory exercises every evening, fish prints, several videos, and a final-night party.

It was tough to pack up and leave on the Tuesday; all agreed that the trip to Bamfield was one of the most positive and enjoyable experiences they had been involved in. Many lasting friendships were established and many plans were solidified to pursue a career in Marine Biology. Several students are planning to return to Bamfield either on their own or on next year's trip. If you haven't been to Bamfield, or to the west coast of the island plan to do so and, if possible, go on the Lady Rose to Bamfield. A more enjoyable and exhilarating trip would be hard to imagine.

We knew when we got off the plane that we were in for quite an experience. Our days were filled with walking tours up and down the streets of Manhattan. We walked to Canal Street where we bargained with the shopkeepers for fake Gucci watches. We saw Greenwich Village, the U.N., the Metropolitan Museum of Fine Art and the World Trade Center. We were always on the lookout for Ben and Jerry's ice cream (mainly as an excuse so Mrs. Tufts would let us rest).

Most of our nights were spent on Broadway. Les Miserables, CATS and A Chorus Line were just some of the possibilities, not to mention M. Butterfly which was an awakening experience for most of us. (remember James, always pay attention or you might miss something important).

We rode in horse drawn carriages in Central Park, ate lobster at the South-street seaport and had a soul food lunch in Harlem. One small piece of advice ... be careful who you pick up in Times Square (right Matt) and watch out for Australians at the Hard Rock Cafe.

A special thanks to Dr. Mitchner and Mrs. Tufts, without whom this trip would not have been possible.

PRINCIPAL'S MESSAGE

The 1990 graduating class members have continued the tradition of previous Harry Ainlay graduands by excelling in a myriad of individual and group activities. This year's senior class members have achieved in an exemplary manner and will be decided assets to our school's historical record of performance.

The "Class of '90" has established a benchmark for others to emulate for the balance of the twentieth century. I am certain that our grade ten and eleven students will meet the challenge that the senior class has left as its heritage.

REMEMBER WHEN

Remember,
When you first came to Ainlay,
You were just one little grade ten in a huge high school of 2400 giant students, and you had made up your mind that high school was the scariest thing you had ever encountered. You were assigned one of 2000 lockers which was humanly impossible to find.

For some reason you considered skipping class as being unforgivable but the first attendance letter always came and your parents always overreacted and demanded to know When? Why?
Where? and with whom you were when you weren't in Phys Ed and Typing 10.

Remember how your only form of transportation was your bike and on it you travel to your 1st dance.

Now you've established yourself in the social ranks of Ainlay. But beware next year the teachers will have a forewarning of you.

They know you,
BEWARE!

GRADE 11's

WE'RE BACK!!

We all cried as we were pushed into Ainlay's Halls in which we soon fell into the cliques to which we all belong whether we like it or not. We return to laughing at the I.B.'s who more often than not go around exclaiming, "I think therefore I.B.". Are these our leaders of tomorrow? But the most fun is laughing at the grade 10's who stand forlornly in the middle of the rotunda studying a map then walking down the halls peeking behind doors looking at the room numbers. But we can't forget Ainlay's 'pride and joy', our athletes. They're easy to pick out, they're the loud ones with their jerseys sewn to their backs. But we have learned a few valuable lessons;

Don't drive to school, the nearest parking space is your driveway.

Intercept all attendance letters, newsletters and other information coming from the school, it could prove detrimental to your health and life outside of school hours.

Never cross the rotunda when other people are watching. These may seem like minor accomplishments for the amount of time we spend trapped in these walls BUT next we have GRAD ...

GRAD COUNCIL

1990 was the perfect year to graduate. It was fast paced, full of changes, and Easter and Spring Break did not coincide, giving us more days off. It puts our reunion in the last year of the 20th century, and our lives and careers in the 21st. It is also the perfect year because six hundred and fifty-two of Ainlay's best now hold their futures in their own capable hands.

It was an honor for me to head the preparations that went into the ceremonies in May. I learned courage and patience. I also learned that Murphy and his law book are around every corner, and a sense of humor is the best way to get around that. This applies to everything in life. May we, as the class of 1990 with courage, patience, and humor go on to realize all our dreams.

VALEDICTORIAN'S SPEECH

Graduands, teachers, honored guests,

Good evening,

As we are all well aware, another chapter of our life is rapidly approaching its end. Graduation signifies many things to us. There is an overwhelming sense of accomplishment; there is an accompanying sigh of relief; and there is an eager anticipation to move forward and embrace the future. However, during this past year, as I periodically reflected on this moment, I came to realize that graduation means much more than closing one door and opening yet another.

While I contemplate the finality of this momentous occasion, I cannot help but reflect on the past three years that have led us here. It seems like only yesterday when we took that first step into a world of uncertainties - high school. Each of us has carved out a niche for ourselves at Harry Ainlay. We have developed the skills that we will need throughout our lives. We have learned more about the world and its many wonders. Perhaps most importantly, we have learned about ourselves. By applying ourselves to tasks in order to meet our expectations, we have matured in mind and in spirit. Our horizons have expanded through the establishment of strong and meaningful relationships with our peers. It is very apparent that all our experiences in high school will inevitably influence our actions and decisions.

Nothing can dampen the pride that I feel as I look at the sea of faces. In spite of the fact that I do not know many of you, we are all linked, tonight, by a bond that will persist for many years to come. Together, during our high school years, we have established goals for ourselves, which we have either achieved or surpassed. The pressures and accomplishments, the joy and the sorrow, the laughter and the tears - these form merely a fragment of our memories. Let us hold on to these memories. They will help us navigate the uncharted waters of the future. "Let us," as Henry Wadsworth Longfellow said,

"be up and doing,
With a heart for any fate,
Still achieving, still pursuing,
Learn to labor and to wait."

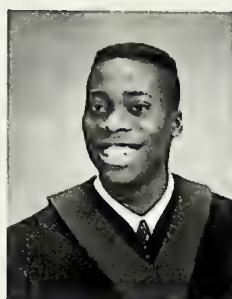

Past and future are inseparable, linked by the present: we are the present. And while we may shed a tear for the past, in the main, let us enjoy the rewards for our efforts in the past. This is our moment to cherish.

Ladies and gentlemen, it has been an honor for me to address the Graduating Class of 1990. Now, on behalf of the Class of 1990, I would like to thank all our friends, teachers, and families, who have guided us through our high school years. In conclusion, to the Graduating Class of 1990, may I wish you great success in all your endeavors.

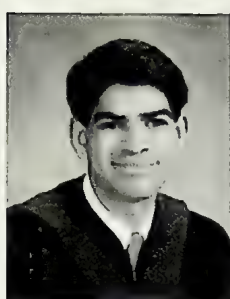

Thank you

CLASS

Class Historians

- I: Try September 6, 1987.
D: Very well then.
Section A: Grade 10 registration Problem:
Using all skills available to you, try to register successfully at Harry Ainlay Composite High School.
Experimental Design:
Enter Cafeteria through east entrance. Proceed along designated route stopping at each appropriate registration location.
Prediction:
Successful registration should be complete by 12 hundred hours, September 6 with percent error of less than 10.
Materials:
2 HB pencils
1 ball point pen
1 blank cheque
1 combination lock butterflies in stomach
- (Krista and Gregg rush onto stage)
K: Thanks guys, I think we can take it from here.
I: Where have you two been? Your presence was required!
G: Well we were in the car discussing our high school years, and we got really reminiscent.
(Gregg wipes off lipstick)
K: Really guys I think we've got things under control now, but thanks anyways. Gregg ... script.
G: I don't have it, I thought you had it.
K: No, I don't have it.
(Gregg checks all of his pockets pulling out various items)
G: Oh, here it is! Oohh! Shoot man, it went through the wash. Uh, guys!
(Dino and Ian return to podium, grinning)
K: Oh, all right, but if you guys want to help out, you have GOT to loosen up.

(Dino loosens his tie)
(Ian throws his "clip-on" on the floor)

- G: Don't overdo it guys.
K: OK, so where did you two leave off?
D: I believe we completed section A.
K&G: Section A?!
I: Registration ... Dude!
G: Thanks for coming out.
K: Holy ... grade 10. The school seemed SO huge!
D: A student capacity of 2600, endless hallways and a store inside the school.
G: That was nothing, how about that eight foot Oscar Meyer in the Cafeteria?
K: Yeah, ... if that didn't scare you, there was always Mr. Stolee.
D: (imitating Stolee)
There are certain out there that think drawing male genitalia on the mirror in the girls' bathroom is funny ... well, they're right, it is funny.
G: You know what's really funny, Chris Delco's party.
(pause)
I: Enough said.
D: Before we knew it Gr. 10 was over and Gr. 11 began.
K: You know, that was a really exciting year in sports.
G: Yeah, Gretzky was traded, I cried for weeks.
I: Pat Ryan won the Brier,
K: and Earl Hawkins didn't play Basketball.
D: When asked for a reason why, the only available comment was ...
G: I'm tired.
K: This gave a white boy a chance to play ball.
I: Of course, it didn't mean he would get to play at lunchtime with the brothers.
D: Yeah, he'd have to hang out with all of the cliques in the rotunda.
G: No doubt, I don't think I can even count all of them on my fingers.
I: Let's try there were:
K: There were the Skaters

- D: the Bangers
G: the Fine Arts Students
I: the Jocks
G: the IB's
-- you know, I never really saw them.
K: the Preps
D: the Funkers
I: the Rotunda Burns
G: and of course Steve Walton.
K: It's too bad that the school didn't offer social skills 10, 20, 30; so that we would have the courage to venture from our designated corners of the rotunda.
I: Since we're all together now, let's take a picture.
D: Yeah right Ian, where are we supposed to find a camera?
(Ian pulls out a camera)
(all stare.)
I: What, it's a Kodak moment guys?
(Ian prepares to take picture)
I: Can you move in on the side I'm serious ...
-- Hey, do you guys want to get in this?
(Ian takes pictures)
I: Did the flash work?
G: Boy this is beautiful, us rallying together like this. This is Titan spirit at its best.
D: Reminds me of that time during Tri-Prov, in grade 11.
All: Yeah!
K: We all rallied together behind one person.
G: Could you help us out with this one ... Bruce?
All: BILL
LUCA
BILL
LUCA
I: Grade 11 was a milestone in our lives, we hit the streets.
K: In a car.
D: The prospect of driving to school overwhelmed us. Unfortunately, Ainlay had the "park at home" policy.
G: It was even worse in grade 12, we didn't get to park at all.
I: Yeah, but Gr. 12 was the best.

HISTORIANS

Boys: Ainlay, Titan Volleyball Rules!

K: The highlight of the season was Ainlay once again defeating the Scona Lords. Their success was primarily a result of the massive fan support.

Boys: Scona's Full of Homos!

Scona's Full of Homos!

D: At the forefront of Ainlay's spirit was our very own Students' Union.

D: Maybe we should get our President Kim to come up and say a few words.

I: Maybe not.

K: Why?

D: Because she sounds like a power tool and she only reads birthdays.

G: Maybe the announcements weren't that great but at least S.U. held some good activities.

I: Like those Fro Bros at Halloween.

D: Adding a new dimension to polyester.

K: And a whole new meaning to the expression "EATMORE".

D: It was a great idea to play the Flintstones in the rotunda at lunch.

I: It's too bad attendance was so low.

G: Yeah, I guess most people realized that they could go to the library and watch it live!

K: Actually, the library became quite a familiar place for those of us with post secondary aspirations.

G: With the new University average of 73.1% you guys must feel pretty ridiculous wearing those gowns.

D: Yeah, considering only four of you will be accepted.

K: Whether we are accepted in University or not is irrelevant at this point, we can all feel secure in the knowledge that we know the proper conduct in our school.

G: What the what is that supposed to mean?

K: Well, the firm alarm It's a perfect example of conditioned reflex.

G: What?

D: You know ... like a slobbering Pavlovian dog.

I: That's why the proper reaction when the firm alarm rings ... is to do nothing.

D: It's a false alarm ... I repeat ... a false alarm ... could someone please check BIOLOGY northwest.

K: Announcement courtesy of Collin.

G: We can look at Ainlay as an institution, but you know what it really comes down to is individuals.

D: Ainlay may be an ugly concrete bunker but we sure are good lookin' people!

K: Take Glenn Gehelet for example.

G: His physique?

K: NO!

D: His athletic ability?

K: NO!

I: His powerful command of the English language?

K: NO!!! His hair!

(boys touch their heads)

OOOOHH!

I: But who better to illuminate Ainlay's drab hallways than our very own ... SUNSHINE GIRL!

D: And now ... Grad 1990 a final gathering of these exemplary individuals.

G: For this rite of passage, it is customary to:

D: rent a tux,

K: buy a dress,

I: find a date,

G: smile for cameras,

D: and choose an appropriate grad theme song.

K: What the heck IS our grad theme song?

D: Well first of all, the students selected the song "With a little help from my friends" by Joe Cocker.

K: Well why was it scrapped?

G: There were two major objections regarding the line:

"I get high with a little help from my friends"

I: A) the teachers object to the implication of students getting high

Gregg Oldring

Krista Yuskow

G: not in this moral land.

D: And B) the students object to the implication that they needed any help to get high at all.

G: So the onus fell on Grad Council to choose an alternative.

K: So what did they come up with?

D: I think it was "TURN, TURN, TURN" by the Byrds.

K: Well what was wrong with that one?

G: The school band could not recreate the Byrds, honk'n, hip, twangy sound.

K: Well, so, do we even HAVE a grad theme song?

I: Of course we do. It's in the program. Anyways ...

K: We may look at today as the beginning of the rest of our lives, and although we are unaware of what the future holds for each of us, we can be assured that everything we have accomplished, gained, and learnt throughout our high school years will prepare us in facing the future.

I: Thank-yous.

D: Can we have a group hug guys?

G: The picture was enough.

WE WERE...

I would like to thank all of the people who helped put this book together. I'll start at the top. We would like to thank Ken Heathfield, our favorite ICP representative (our only ICP rep.) for all of his patience, assistance, and support. We would like to thank Colin Penman for all of his assistance on the cover, in the darkroom, with his never ending patience and his always helpful, dedicated and determined attitude. We would like to thank Mrs. Deptuck, our advisor, for her (occasional patience), assistance, and guidance. We would like to thank Mr. Bonnema for the use of your room before we were so brutally uprooted and transplanted by administration. We would like to thank Carla for all of her time and assistance, especially while I was away (thanks for the tape, I owe you one). We would like to thank Scott and Robin for all the pictures they took, then lost or never did (just joking, we really appreciated it). We would like to thank Anita for all her typing. We would like to thank Mark for staying around all those hours working and taking the abuse (even though he deserved it), your pages still weren't in on time. Thanks to Susan and Patrick for time and effort and for putting up with me. Thank you Kurt for your typing and (ha ha ha) completed pages. Good luck next year.

We would like to thank Mr. Cocks for all of his pictures. Thanks Mr. Agrell for doing all of your pages. In case we missed anyone, THANK YOU EVERYONE THAT AIDED AND CONTRIBUTED TO THIS YEAR'S YEARBOOK. I am taking this opportunity to thank my staff. I really appreciated your attitude, dedication and determination. So long and GOOD LUCK NEXT YEAR AND IN THE FUTURE.

The Editor,

Shannon

"Give Me English or Give Me Death"

The English Department at Harry Ainlay Composite High School is known world-wide for their zest for life, and their love of the English language.

English, being a required course, is forced upon every unsuspecting student that enters through the doors of Harry Ainlay. The school seems to have acquired every type of English teacher available. All sharing one common goal; purpose in life ... to torment students while making them conform to their creative standards. They take our "common" language and distort it until it seems foreign. There is no one set of rules. Everything changes once you venture inside those doors. Arrive late and you will be subjected to a recital of a soliloquy from Macbeth.

An innocent student sitting at the back of the room, trying to be as inconspicuous as possible, revealed the truth about the teacher in question. During a recent lesson on "Understanding Poetry," the teacher spontaneously shouted, "Give me English, or give me death!"

She later revealed that she had only a vague recollection of the incident. The closest explanation that she could give was,

"I felt like ... like Bill (Shakespeare) was standing next to me."

This reporter believes that it was William Shakespeare's spirit coming back to voice his dissatisfaction with today's school system.

Science Olympics Team Members Accused of Anabolic Steroid Use

Rumours have been circulating for some time now that certain members of the Harry Ainlay Science Olympics team have been using anabolic steroids.

Mr. Nicholson, the school's principal, became involved when, during a competition at West Edmonton Mall, the team took apart and reassembled the Mind Bender Roller Coaster in under 10 minutes.

"I had no idea of what was going on" said Nicholson. "It wasn't until the Mind Bender set a record for the number of consecutive days without a fatal accident (2) that I knew anything about the problem."

It was then that the International Organization of Science Olympic Participants (IOSOP) stepped in. The entire team was taken to a drug-testing facility here in Edmonton and were subjected to a full battery of tests. All of the members tested negative for any illegal substances.

During a press conference, the team members were asked for an explanation for their excessive energy level. They replied simply, "It was all in the name of scientific advancement and for extra bonus points."

Thousands Freeze At Local High School

It is a known fact that Harry Ainlay Composite High School's climate system has serious flaws. There has been no apparent attempt to rectify this perilous situation.

As a result on January 17, 1990, thousands of students did popsicle impressions in the school. The official number of "sicles" has not yet been confirmed but police believe the number to be around 2000.

Students who happened to be home ill on the 17th say that everyone felt this coming, "The school just got colder and colder every day."

A few students, however, did escape the grasp of the Big Chill. One survivor comments, "It must have been 45° below 0 in there. I would have been warmer if I had stayed outside." This survivor managed to escape the cold by doing jumping jacks for 5 hours and 14 minutes, a new Guinness record, before the police were able to crack open the frozen doors.

A class of Chemistry students were found unharmed in a secluded corner of the school, gathered around a bunsen burner roasting marshmallows.

Mrs. Krawchuk's Food Studies class kept warm by opening the hot oven doors and stuffing loaves of French bread under the door to prevent any drafts.

An official investigation is now underway to determine exactly what happened at Harry Ainlay. The Nicholson Inquiry is scheduled to end in early spring.

Role Playing Club Accused of Cruelty to Wizards: SPCW Founded

At one of the regular meetings of the Harry Ainlay Role Playing Club, an impartial viewer noted that they used excessive force when attacking wizards. They attack the wizards in a ruthless effort to complete their imaginary campaign.

This was not the first time that these cruelties have been noticed.

As a result, a small group of students got together and met with the Students' Union. An agreement was reached, and the SPCW was formed. The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Wizards is a non-profitable organization that takes an active role in standing up for the rights of the people, real or imaginary.
